Internships and Experiential Learning in a Chinese University: A Report from the Field

Monday, November 5, 2018 • Noon-1:30pm

Wisconsin Idea Room (Room 159 Education Building)

In this talk Dr. Matthew Hora will report preliminary findings from a recent trip to Tianjin, China where he spent 2.5 weeks conducting a mixed methods study of the relationship between internship program design and student outcomes. Drawing on survey, focus group, and interview data, Dr. Hora will provide a comparative and critical analysis of internship programming in China and the US, with a focus on students' experiences in their internships.

Founding Director of CCWT, Dr. Matthew T. Hora is an Assistant Professor of Adult and Higher Education in the Department of Liberal Arts and Applied Studies at UW–Madison, and a research scientist at the Wisconsin Center for Education Research.

The Center for Research on College-Workforce Transitions (CCWT) is a new initiative of the Wisconsin Center for Education Research (WCER). CCWT's mission is to conduct and support research, critical policy analysis, and public dialogue on how college students experience the transition to the workforce. CCWT strives to inform policies, programs, and practices that promote academic and career success for all learners.
