

Community Cultural Wealth

Linguistic Capital

The art of various forms of language and style and the intellectual and social skills one obtains through multiple forms of communication and collection of experiences.

About Linguistic Capital:

One's ability to work with different languages and communication styles creates multidimensional learning experiences benefitting diverse populations.

Linguistic Capital looks like:

Storytelling

Respect

Code-switching

Empathy through systems using more than one language

Reflecting on Linguistic Capital:

- How do you speak and engage with different audiences?
- What are some "sayings or phrases" that are dear to you and your culture?

